JIM FARR

Jim Farr brings over 30 years of baseball experience to the Academy, eight as a professional player and 24 as a Division I college coach.

Coach Farr received his B.S. and M.S. from Penn State University. He played professionally for 8 years, progressing through all levels of the minor leagues and reaching the major league level. He was selected in the Major League Baseball amateur draft 3 times – as a senior in high school, as a junior in college, and after his senior year in college.

Farr's coaching resume includes Penn State, Old Dominion, William & Mary, and the University of Maryland. He was the head coach at William and Mary from 1992 – 2005 becoming the school's all time winningest head coach with 373 victories, including a CAA conference championship in 2001 and a CAA divisional championship in 2002. He transformed the W&M program from the bottom of the CAA to a perennial CAA contender.

Regarded as an outstanding evaluator and developer of baseball talent, he has recruited and coached over 50 athletes who have gone on to play professionally, including four first-round draft selections. Eight of his former players have advanced to the major league level.

Farr is currently the Mid-Atlantic area scout for the Kansas City Royals. His territory includes Virginia, Maryland, D.C., Delaware, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia.

Mission Statement

The Jim Farr Baseball and Softball Academy at WISC trains athletes from little league to the major leagues.

The Academy is designed to help young men and women develop their skills and abilities to the highest level possible through our programs and instruction.

Instructors with collegiate and professional experience will be on the academy staff. Programs for youth league players to high school players – aspiring to play at the collegiate and/or professional level – will be introduced. This will create additional opportunities to play at higher levels of organized baseball and softball. Individual, group, and team sessions will be provided along with camps and clinics. The mission of the academy is to provide athletes with the training and exposure they need to realize their full potential.
